Appendix 1 - Current proportionality table

1 THE ISSUE

- 1.1 There has been a change in political balance in the Council so, in line with the requirements of the Local Government & Housing Act 1989, this needs review.

2 RECOMMENDATION

Council is asked to;

- 2.1 Approve a revised political proportionality table.

3 THE REPORT

- 3.1 There has been a recent change to political group membership; - Councillor Ann Morgan resigned from the Liberal Democrat group on 9th January 2026 and is now an independent councillor (and has joined the Independents group). Councillor Grant Johnson resigned from the Labour Group on 17th January 2026 and is now an independent (unaligned) councillor.
- 3.2 As a result of this, an adjustment to committee memberships is needed. The Labour group need to lose two places from any of the bodies in the top table (of the appendix). One place to be allocated to the Independents, and one for the Unaligned councillor. The appendix shows the existing committee allocations in one row, and a Total Seat Allocation row which is the new required number total.

- 3.3 As we do not have an amount of committee places that matches the number of members, there is always some rounding up/rounding down to be done to the figures that the percentages produce. [Loss of a member to a larger group has less impact.]
- 3.4 The allocation of seats between the bodies listed in the top table (compulsory cumulative proportionality) is traditionally managed through discussion between Group Leaders. As long as the Total numbers in the bottom column of the top table are correct, there is discretion as to how these are allocated within these bodies. An updated table will be circulated prior to the meeting if agreement is reached on an alternative structure before then.
- 3.5 It remains the position that, if a seat is allocated to a member/group, it is within their gift to offer their place to another group (or non-aligned member) and the group can withdraw that offer at any point. This is an informal arrangement and does not affect the formal proportionality numbers. [This is currently the situation with the Children, Adults, Health & Wellbeing PDS Panel, with the Independents for B&NES 'lending' their seat to the Green group.]

Proportionality rules

- 3.6 The law gives detailed guidance on the principles to be applied in calculating the allocation of seats on Committees and Sub Committees but the basic principles are:-
- a) not all the seats on the body shall be allocated to one particular party;
 - b) the majority of the seats on the body shall be allocated to a particular political group if the number of persons belonging to that group is a majority of the Authority's membership;
 - c) Subject to paragraphs (a) and (b) above, the number of seats on the ordinary Committees of the Authority which are allocated to a political group shall bear the same proportion to the total of all the seats on the ordinary Committees of that Authority as is borne by the number of members of that group to the membership of that Authority;
 - d) subject to paragraphs (a) to (c) above, the number of seats on the body which are allocated to each political group bears the same proportion to the number of all the seats on that body as is borne by the number of members of that group to the membership of the Authority.
 - e) Notwithstanding (a) to (d) above the Act does not restrict the ability of the Council, or Committees where they are authorised by the Council, to decide on the size and number of seats on Committees and Sub Committees, and to make the actual appointments. A Committee or Sub Committee must, however, comprise at least two voting members.
 - f) The law also deals with the allocation of committee places to members who do not belong to any political group formally recognised by the Council. It indicates that, where there are members of the Council who do not belong to a political group, a proportion of seats on each body to which appointments are made, equal to the proportion of authority members who do not belong to a political group, will be allocated to the Member(s) concerned.
